Chapter 2

Essay Questions

1. The law requires four elements to be present for the commission of all crimes. What is the result if one of those elements is not present, for instance, if there is an act and a requisite state of mind but causation is not met?
2. Explain the necessity of voluntariness of the act in the commission of an offense.
3. Explain the difficulties encountered when one is assessing and defining voluntariness.
4. What type of liability do statutory rape laws have, and why is that constitutional?
5. Discuss the theory under which the government could hold a corporation liable in a murder case, for example. How would that kind of case proceed?
6. Explain how possession can be sufficient to meet the “act” requirement to constitute a criminal offense.
7. Explain the difference between an inference and a presumption and the use of each in the proof of intent.
8. In statutes that have attendant circumstances, what is the importance of the attendant circumstances in the context of proof at trial?
9. Why must causation be proved?
10. When can an individual be liable for a failure to act?
11. Discuss and explain enterprise liability.
12. List the elements of a crime.
13. Identify the levels of culpability included in the Model Penal Code (MPC). Define each level of culpability, then compare and contrast the levels identified.
14. Explain why involuntary actions are not considered criminal. Provide some examples of involuntary actions that will not result in criminal culpability.
15. Describe the concept of causation in criminal law.
16. What are attendant circumstances? How do they play a role in the criminal culpability of an offender?
17. Define strict liability. Why do most jurisdictions consider statutory rape a strict liability offense? Do you believe it is just to hold individuals criminally liable for actions in which they did not possess any intent to commit the crime? Explain why you do/do not believe the concept of strict liability in criminal law is just, presenting clear arguments to support your belief and addressing potential arguments from the other side of the debate.
18. What are the limitations of enterprise liability?
19. Define and give an example of an intervening act.
