Who Are You?

1. Student answers will vary. One possible way to prove both identity and employment is a current U.S. passport. Alternatively, a current state-issued driver's license and a social security card will work for the purposes of the I-9.
2. Student answers will vary. Many students may underestimate their estimated exemptions.
3. Student answers will vary. Examples of statutory employees include: A driver who distributes beverages (other than milk) or meat, vegetable, fruit, or bakery products or who picks up and delivers laundry or dry cleaning, if the driver is a single company's agent or is paid on commission. A full-time life insurance sales agent whose principal business activity is selling life insurance or annuity contracts, or both, primarily for one life insurance company. An individual who works at home on materials or goods that a company supplies and that must be returned to that company or a designated agent in accordance with furnished specifications for the work to be done. A full-time traveling or city salesperson who works on a single company's behalf and turns in orders from wholesalers, retailers, contractors, or operators of hotels, restaurants, or other similar establishments. The goods sold must be merchandise for resale or supplies for use in the buyer's business operation. The work performed for that single company must be the salesperson's principal business activity.

Exempt vs. Nonexempt

1. Exempt workers are exempt from the overtime provisions of FLSA. Exempt workers tend to be employees in a company's managerial or other leadership functions, in which they may need to work more than 40 hours per week to complete their tasks. Exempt workers usually receive a fixed salary per period that is not based on the number of hours worked. Nonexempt workers tend to be compensated on an hourly basis and often do not have managerial or leadership responsibilities. It should be noted that some nonexempt workers do have managerial or leadership responsibilities and may receive a fixed salary; however, these particular employees are covered by the overtime provisions of FLSA. An employee is defined as a person who works solely for one company. Most or all work-related materials are provided by the company. Employee payroll taxes are paid by the company, and the employee may be eligible for fringe benefits. In contrast, an independent contractor may have more than one company as a client. Independent contractors provide their own tools and materials, pay their own income taxes, and generally establish their working hours. An employee of a company is considered to be part of the payroll expense, whereas an independent contractor is a vendor of the company who submits invoices for payment.

2. C

3. Nonexempt. When workers are employed on a nonexempt basis, they are paid to perform a specific job regardless of the number of hours worked to accomplish that job. A 2014 Gallup Work and Education poll found that more than half of the nonexempt salaried workers surveyed worked in excess of 40 hours per week.

Worker Facts

1. Hourly workers and nonexempt are protected by the FLSA
2. Exempt workers receive a fixed amount of money and generally direct the actions of other employees; nonexempt workers are eligible for overtime and generally have their work directed by a manager.
3. Commission workers are typically tied to sales completed by the individual; piece rate pay is determined by the number of pieces the employee completes during a shift or period.
4. A minimum hourly rate is set by the U.S. Federal government. Minimum wage rates can and do vary per state, and different parts of the same state may have different minimum wages. The minimum wage may differ from a “living wage,” which is an amount needed to meet basic subsistence needs. As of 2017, approximately 40 cities and/or counties have enacted living wage ordinances to rise in relation to the Consumer Price Index.

Who Does Which Job?

Student answers will vary. The answer should reflect a clear separation of duties, cross-training, rotation of tasks, and security protocols.

Form W-4 (2017)

Purpose. Complete Form W-4 so that your employer can withhold the correct federal income tax from your pay. Consider completing a new Form W-4 each year and when your personal or financial situation changes.

Exemption from withholding. If you are exempt, complete only lines 1, 2, 3, 4, and 7 and sign the form to validate it. Your exemption for 2017 expires February 15, 2018. See Pub. 505, Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax.

Note: If another person can claim you as a dependent on his or her tax return, you can't claim exemption from withholding if your total income exceeds $1,000 and includes more than $350 of unearned income (for example, interest and dividends).

Exceptions. An employee may be able to claim exemptions from withholding even if the employee is a dependent, if the employee:

- is age 65 or older,
- is blind, or
- Will claim adjustments to income, tax credits, or itemized deductions, on his or her tax return.

The exceptions don't apply to supplemental wages greater than $1,000,000.

Basic instructions. If you aren't exempt, complete the Personal Allowances Worksheet below. The worksheets on page 2 further adjust your withholding allowances based on itemized deductions, certain credits, adjustments to income, or two earners/multiple jobs situations.

Complete all worksheets that apply. However, you may claim fewer (or zero) allowances. For regular wages, withholding must be based on allowances you claimed and may not be a flat amount or percentage of wages.

Head of household. Generally, you can claim head of household filing status on your tax return only if you are unmarried and pay more than 50% of the costs of keeping up a home for yourself and your dependent(s) or other qualifying individuals. See Pub. 501, Exemptions, Standard Deduction, and Filing Information, for information.

Tax credits. You can take projected tax credits into account in figuring your allowable number of withholding allowances. Credits for child or dependent care expenses and the child tax credit may be claimed using the Personal Allowances Worksheet below. See Pub. 505 for information on converting your other credits into withholding allowances.

Nonwage income. If you have a large amount of nonwage income, such as interest or dividends, consider making estimated tax payments using Form 1040-ES, Estimated Tax for Individuals. Otherwise, you may owe additional tax. If you have pension or annuity income, see Pub. 505 to find out if you should adjust your withholding on Form W-4 or W-4P.

Two earners or multiple jobs. If you have a working spouse or more than one job, figure the total number of allowances you are entitled to claim on all jobs using worksheets from only one Form W-4. Your withholding usually will be most accurate when all allowances are claimed on the Form W-4 for the highest paying job and zero allowances are claimed on the others. See Pub. 505 for details.

Nonresident alien. If you are a nonresident alien, see Notice 1382, Supplemental Form W-4 Instructions for Nonresident Aliens, before completing this form.

Check your withholding. After your Form W-4 takes effect, use Pub. 505 to see how the amount you are having withheld compares to your projected total tax for 2017. See Pub. 505, especially if your earnings exceed $130,000 (Single) or $180,000 (Married).

Future developments. Information about any future developments affecting Form W-4 (such as legislation enacted after we release it) will be posted at www.irs.gov/w4.

PROBLEM SET B

P2-1B. Tasha Webb is an independent contractor for Antimbu Exports, where you are the payroll accountant. She feels that she should receive employee benefits because of the number of hours that she dedicates to the company. What guidance can you offer Tasha?

- a. Independent contractors are most frequently treated as a vendor and would not be included in employee benefits. There are specific tests that determine the relationship between employer and employee; however, the number of hours committed is not one of the defining traits.

P2-2B. Joseph Lyons was terminated for cause from Telecy Industries in Hawaii, on August 21, 2017. As of the date of his termination, he had accrued 22 hours of regular time. Employees at Telecy are paid semimonthly on the 15th and last day of the month. Joseph would like to know when he will be paid for the accrued hours. What will you tell him?

- a. Hawaii requires that when an employee is terminated their final pay is given at the time of termination or on the next business day if financially unable to issue the check.

P2-3B. Sara Northman, a member of the Algonquin Indian Nation, is a new employee at Predeo Game Design. During the process of completing her I-9, she claims that the only way to prove her identity is the Algonquin Indian National official birth certificate. Is this document sufficient to verify his employment eligibility? Explain.

- a. Algonquin Indian National official birth certificate would be adequate as it can fulfill both requirements for establishing identity and employment verification.

P2-4B. Abraham Manning is a new employee of Symity Batteries. He is curious about the purpose of the requirements for new hire documentation to be forwarded to government agencies. What should you tell him?

- a. Reporting creates a registry to monitor child support obligations, tracks immigration to ensure individuals are legal to work in the United States, ensures that individuals in professions that can have sanctions are legally able to continue to work, finally to enable the tracking of COBRA benefits.

P2-5B. Frances Perez wants to start her own company. As a seasoned payroll professional, she approaches you for guidance about the differences between weekly, biweekly, and semimonthly pay periods. What would you tell her?

- a. Weekly payroll is where individuals will receive 52 paychecks per year and are suited for companies that are small – construction or professional entities. Biweekly payroll is where individuals will receive 26 paychecks per year processed every two weeks and is one of the more common pay periods, occasionally this method may result in 27 pay periods. Semimonthly is where employees will receive 24 paychecks per year

P2-6B. Katrina Wilkins is a new payroll clerk for Remm Plumbing. She is curious about the purpose of the different steps in the payroll review process and asks you, her supervisor, for guidance. What would you tell her?

- a. The payroll review process is designed to verify the information so that employees are paid correctly and the data is correct. Starting with the employee completing their time card, the information is then verified by the manager. After the manager has agreed that the employee has accurately portrayed the hours worked, the payroll clerk will prepare the information for the manager to review and approve. Once the information has been approved, the payroll checks can be issued to the employees.

P2-7B. George Andrews started as a payroll accountant at Portose Herbals, a company with 70 employees. He soon notices that the former payroll accountant had been processing payroll manually, and suggests that the company immediately switch to cloud-based payroll. Although the company is switching to an electronic payroll processing system, what types of paper documentation must be maintained in employee records?

- a. Employers retain physical copies of employees' time records, pay advice, and any other documentation processed with the paycheck. Some other types of documentation include: Request for a day off; reports of tardiness or absenteeism; detailed records of work completed during that day's shift.

P2-8B. Tara Morris, a payroll clerk, has received a promotion and is now the payroll supervisor for Fligen Enterprises. What document control items could now become her responsibility?

- a. Payroll system security, Maintenance of paid time off (i.e., vacation, sick, etc.), Access to payroll data, Separation of duties, Training of payroll staff

P2-9B. Herman Watkins is in the payroll department of Neombee Plastics, a multistate company. The company has historically been filing employee information with each state. What alternative exists for multistate employers?

- a. Multistate Employer Notification Form allows centralized reporting from the Office of Management and Budget

P2-10B. Derek Allen is the payroll supervisor for Caposis Freight. His company is preparing to merge with another distribution company that has a different pay cycle. The president of the company wants to know the difference between biweekly and semimonthly pay cycles as far as pay dates and pay amounts. What should Derek tell him?

- a. Moving between biweekly (26 pay periods per year with the possibility of 27) to a semimonthly system (24 pay periods per year) would cause individual to see increases per pay period since there are more days being covered on the pay period under semimonthly than on biweekly. This would also result in higher taxes per pay period.

P2-11B. Complete the W-4 for employment at Dark Forest Ranch:

Linda Ellen Marshall

8924 County Line Road

Taylorville, Illinois 62555

SSN: 129-53-2309

Married filing jointly, combined income exceeds $70,000 per year

Three dependents. She has no child care expenses but is able to claim the child tax credit and does not wish to withhold additional amounts.

She has a second job as a delivery driver for Tazio Labs, where she earns $12,000/year.

Form W-4 (2017)

Purpose. Complete Form W-4 so that your employer can withhold the correct federal income tax from your pay. Consider completing a new Form W-4 each year and when your personal or financial situation changes.

Exemption from withholding. If you are exempt, complete only lines 1, 2, 3, 4, and 7 and sign the form to validate it. Your exemption for 2017 expires February 15, 2018. See Pub. 505, Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax.

Note: If another person can claim you as a dependent on his or her tax return, you can't claim exemption from withholding if your total income exceeds $1,050 and includes more than $350 of unearned income (for example, interest and dividends).

Exceptions. An employee may be able to claim exemption from withholding even if the employee is a dependent, if the employee:

- Is age 65 or older,
- Is blind, or
- Will claim adjustments to income, tax credits, or itemized deductions on his or her tax return.

The exceptions don't apply to supplemental wages greater than $1,000,000.

Basic instructions. If you aren't exempt, complete the Personal Allowances Worksheet below. The worksheets on page 2 further adjust your withholding allowances based on itemized deductions, certain credits, adjustments to income, or two-earners/multiple jobs situations.

Complete all worksheets that apply. However, you may claim fewer (or zero) allowances. For regular wages, withholding must be based on allowances you claimed and may not be a flat amount or percentage of wages.

Head of household. Generally, you can claim head of household filing status on your tax return only if you are unmarried and pay more than 50% of the costs of keeping up a home for yourself and your dependent(s) or other qualifying individuals. See Pub. 501, Exemptions, Standard Deduction, and Filing Information, for information.

Tax credits. You can take projected tax credits into account in figuring your allowable number of withholding allowances. Credits for child or dependent care expenses and the child tax credit may be claimed using the Personal Allowances Worksheet below. See Pub. 505 for information on converting your other credits into withholding allowances.

Nonwage income. If you have a large amount of nonwage income, such as interest or dividends, consider making estimated tax payments using Form 1040-ES, Estimated Tax for Individuals. Otherwise, you may owe additional tax. If you have pension or annuity income, see Pub. 505 to find out if you should adjust your withholding on Form W-4 or W-4P.

Two earners or multiple jobs. If you have a working spouse or more than one job, figure the total number of allowances you are entitled to claim on all jobs using worksheets from only one Form W-4. Your withholding usually will be most accurate when all allowances are claimed on the Form W-4 for the highest paying job and zero allowances are claimed on the others. See Pub. 505 for details.

Nonresident alien. If you are a nonresident alien, see Notice 1392, Supplemental Form W-4 Instructions for Nonresident Aliens, before completing this form.

Check your withholding. After your Form W-4 takes effect, use Pub. 505 to see how the amount you are having withheld compares to your projected total tax for 2017. See Pub. 505, especially if your earnings exceed $130,000 (Single) or $180,000 (Married).

Future developments. Information about any future developments affecting Form W-4 (such as legislation enacted after we release it) will be posted at www.irs.gov/w4.

CRITICAL THINKING

- 2-1. When Omnimia Graphics was looking to implement a payroll accounting system, the manufacturing firm had several options. With only 40 employees, the manual preparation of payroll through spreadsheets and handwritten time cards was a comfortable option for the firm. Another option is to convince the senior management of Omnimia Graphics to implement a software program for payroll processing. What are the key points to consider? If the company has more than one department, how can this transition be accomplished?
1. Key points that need to be included: ease of update for changes in tax laws, tax tables, and payroll regulations; ease of reporting; whether the employee self-service option would be eligible; confidentiality
- 2-2. You have been hired as a consultant for Semiva Productions, a company facing an IRS audit of their accounting records. During your review, you notice anomalies in the payroll system involving overpayments of labor and payments to terminated employees. What would you do?
1. When the abnormalities are discovered, the management of the company should be made aware of the situation. Since the IRS audit is imminent, documenting the date of the find and attempts to rectify the error would be advisable. Depending upon the nature of the anomalies, the company or payroll employees may have made some serious errors.

Basic instructions. If you aren't exempt, complete the Personal Allowances Worksheet below. The worksheets on page 2 further adjust your withholding allowances based on itemized deductions, certain credits, adjustments to income, or two-earners/multiple jobs situations.

Complete all worksheets that apply. However, you may claim fewer (or zero) allowances. For regular wages, withholding must be based on allowances you claimed and may not be a flat amount or percentage of wages.

Head of household. Generally, you can claim head of household filing status on your tax return only if you are unmarried and pay more than 50% of the costs of keeping up a home for yourself and your dependent(s) or other qualifying individuals. See Pub. 501, Exemptions, Standard Deduction, and Filing Information, for information.

Tax credits. You can take projected tax credits into account in figuring your allowable number of withholding allowances. Credits for child or dependent care expenses and the child tax credit may be claimed using the Personal Allowances Worksheet below. See Pub. 505 for information on converting your other credits into withholding allowances.

Nonwage income. If you have a large amount of nonwage income, such as interest or dividends, consider making estimated tax payments using Form 1040-ES, Estimated Tax for Individuals. Otherwise, you may owe additional tax. If you have pension or annuity income, see Pub. 505 to find out if you should adjust your withholding on Form W-4 or W-4P.

Two earners or multiple jobs. If you have a working spouse or more than one job, figure the total number of allowances you are entitled to claim on all jobs using worksheets from only one Form W-4. Your withholding usually will be most accurate when all allowances are claimed on the Form W-4 for the highest paying job and zero allowances are claimed on the others. See Pub. 505 for details.

Nonresident alien. If you are a nonresident alien, see Notice 1392, Supplemental Form W-4 Instructions for Nonresident Aliens, before completing this form.

Check your withholding. After your Form W-4 takes effect, use Pub. 505 to see how the amount you are having withheld compares to your projected total tax for 2017. See Pub. 505, especially if your earnings exceed $130,000 (Single) or $180,000 (Married).

Future developments. Information about any future developments affecting Form W-4 (such as legislation enacted after we release it) will be posted at www.irs.gov/w4.

Personal Allowances Worksheet (Keep for your records.)

A Enter "1" for yourself if no one else can claim you as a dependent B Enter "1" if: • You're single and have only one job; or • You're married, have only one job, and your spouse doesn't work; or • Your wages from a second job or your spouse's wages (or the total of both) are $1,500 or less. C Enter "1" for your spouse. But, you may choose to enter "-0-" if you are married and have either a working spouse or more than one job. (Entering "-0-" may help you avoid having too little tax withheld.) D Enter number of dependents (other than your spouse or yourself) you will claim on your tax return E Enter "1" if you will file as head of household on your tax return (see conditions under Head of household above) F Enter "1" if you have at least $2,000 of child or dependent care expenses for which you plan to claim a credit (Note: Do not include child support payments. See Pub. 503, Child and Dependent Care Expenses, for details.) G Child Tax Credit (including additional child tax credit). See Pub. 972, Child Tax Credit, for more information. • If your total income will be less than $70,000 ($100,000 if married), enter "2" for each eligible child; then less "1" if you have two to four eligible children or less "2" if you have five or more eligible children. • If your total income will be between $70,000 and $84,000 ($100,000 and $119,000 if married), enter "1" for each eligible child. H Add lines A through G and enter total here. (Note: This may be different from the number of exemptions you claim on your tax return.) ▶	A 1 B   C   D 2 E   F   G   H 3

Compensation considerations

Calculations of Time: Exempt Employee

- Juan is a manager for a textiles firm. He earns $52,000 per year and is classified as an exempt employee, and is paid biweekly.
- He normally works 40 hours per week.
- In June, he worked 85 hours during one pay period and 78 hours during the next.
- He would receive his salary of $2,000 ($$52,000/26$ periods) for each pay period, no matter how many hours he worked because he is classified as an exempt employee.
- Total pay = $2,000

Calculations of Time: Nonexempt Employee

- Monique works as an administrator at a busy hospital.
- She is paid $52,000 on a weekly basis and is classified as nonexempt.
- During one week, she worked 50 hours.
- She would earn her regular weekly wage of $1,000 ($$52,000/52$ period) plus time and a half for the overtime hours.
- Based on a 40-hour workweek, her hourly wage is \$25 ($\$52,000/(52 \times 40)$), so her overtime pay would be \$375 (10 hours $\times$ 1.5 $\times$ \$25).
- Total Pay = $$1,000 + $375 = \underline{$1,375}$

LO 2-5: Describe Internal Controls and Record Retention for a Payroll System

Review Process Elements

- Managerial Verification of Time Cards
- Verification of Payroll Computations
- Approval of Pay Amounts
- Preparation of Pay Disbursement
- Approval of Pay Disbursement

File Security

- Important part of internal control
- Safeguards governmental obligations
- Involves
 - Multiple passwords
 - Personnel cross-training
 - Electronic encryption
 - Restricted access
 - Duty rotation

Payroll fraud occurrence example

A payroll specialist in Florida was HIV-positive, and was afraid to reveal his illness to employers. Instead, he took the money from his employer to pay for expensive medications.

- He would memorize his coworkers' usernames and passwords to create “ghost” employees.
- These ghosts' pay would go to the payroll specialist's bank account.
- He would falsify the payroll summaries he submitted for approval.
- The payroll specialist was found guilty of embezzling $112,000 before his termination.

Best Practices: Employee File Maintenance

- IRS Regulation 26 CFR 1.6001
 - Employer responsible for file maintenance
 - Recommends labeling and storage of backups
 - Employer must guarantee auditor access
- IRS Revenue Procedure 98-25
 - Record keeping duration for employers
 - Must include payroll transaction detail
 - Record derivation of executive pay
 - All pay must be benchmarked and justified

Best Practices: Electronic Records

- Closed system
 - Access granted only to specific employees
- Record identifiers and logging
 - Marks who accessed which record and when
- Employers must monitor records for hacker activity

Best Practices: Non-Solo Effort

- More than one person involved in the generation and maintenance of payroll records
- Separation of duties
 - No single person could generate paychecks
- Documentation of employee duties
 - Provides verification of completed tasks
 - Protects employer against fraud

What a Non-Solo Payroll Department Prevents

- Terminated employees could continue to be paid via the payroll system or the funds could be subverted to someone else perpetrating the fraud.
- Sales commission plans, employee bonus plans, incentive programs are all subject to employees' and management's manipulation.
- The payroll checks distributed to employees could be stolen individually or en masse prior to their distribution.

Best Practices: Document Retention

- Regulation 26 CFR 1.6001
 - Pertains to manual and computerized records
 - Guideline is 7 years
 - Retention period begins upon final pay disbursement
 - In the event of payroll fraud, all records must be accessible indefinitely
 - Records for terminated employees must be kept for 7 years following separation
- Employer is responsible for all records, even when payroll is outsourced

Document retention and the U.S. Supreme Court

In 2012, the U.S. Supreme Court issued specific guidelines to the IRS about the statute of limitations for audits. In U.S. v. Home Concrete Supply, LLC, the Court directed the following guidelines about records audits:

- 3 years to assess a taxpayer's deficiency
- 6 years if the taxpayer's gross assets were understated by more than 25%
- Unlimited time if intent to commit fraud exists

LO 2-6: Discuss Employee Termination and Document Destruction Procedures

- Paper records

- Incineration
- Shredding
- Pulping

- Electronic records

- Must be purged from company servers
- All backup copies must be destroyed

Termination Pay Regulations

- Termination type
 - Involuntary termination (“firing” or “layoff”)
 - Voluntary resignation (“quitting”)
- Final pay
 - Must contain all hours worked
 - Vacation and sick time owed
 - Any other compensation owed or due

Final Pay Regulations: Selected States

AR	Within 7 days of discharge	NV	Immediately upon discharge
CA	At time of discharge	NH	Within 72 hours
CO	Immediately upon discharge	NJ	By the next regular payday
CT	No later than the next business day	NM	Within 5 days when wages are definite, otherwise within 10 days if wages are indefinite

GA	No termination pay guidelines	OK	Next regular payday for the pay period
ID	Within 10 days, excluding weekends and holidays	PA	Next regular payday

Summary of Payroll System Procedures

- Payroll system requires careful planning
- Allow room for company growth
