36. A paralegal works for a small law firm where the lawyers specialize in family law. A new client, Abby, comes in and paralegal Marie is asked to interview her. Abby is considering filing for divorce and tells Marie that her husband is abusive. Marie takes down all the information needed to file the case and then tells Abby, woman to woman, that she should not continue to allow her husband to treat her this way and that she should not return home. She gets additional information to file a restraining order against the husband and makes a call to a friend who runs a shelter for abused women. She arranges for Abby to go there. Before she leaves the office, Abby signs an engagement letter setting forth the terms of the representation, which Marie explains. Marie does not sign the agreement but gives it with her notes to lawyer Bob. Bob signs it and tells Marie to fill out the petition for the restraining order and the petition for divorce, and to sign and file them with the court. Have Marie and Bob violated any ethics rules? If so, please identify the misconduct and the rule and explain both how it was violated and what should have been done under the circumstances. If not, identify the conduct that may be considered misconduct and explain why it is not unethical.
